

Please join us for:

Archaeology and Truth and Reconciliation: The 2016/2017 Strathcona Archaeological Society Lecture Series

This year the Strathcona Archaeological Society has compiled a lecture series which addresses the relationship between First Nations, archaeologists and heritage resource management.

All talks are held at MacEwan University in the Archaeology lab (room 7-333) on the third Thursday of the month, starting at 7:00 pm.

September 15 - Laura Golebiowski of Alberta Culture and Tourism - "Reconciling Heritage: Learning and Unlearning Approaches to Cultural Resource Management"

October 20 - Elder Jerry Saddleback of Samson Cree Nation and the Maskwacis Cultural College - speaking on the Maskwacis experience of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission.

November 17 - Kisha Supernant of the University of Alberta - Archaeology and the TRC: The relationship between community-based Indigenous archaeology, cultural heritage, and reconciliation.

December 15 - Darryel Sowan of Swan River First Nation - Excavations at Pikopayiw Mohkoman (Broken Knife) Site, archaeology by and for Swan River First Nation.

January 19 - Caroline Hudecek-Cuffe (Alberta Culture and Tourism), Aaron Wilson (Alberta Culture and Tourism), Ron Lameman (Confederacy of Treaty 6 First Nations), Pam Mayne-Correia (University of Alberta) - Historic Burial Near Viking, Alberta: A story of Excavation, Ceremony and Community.

February 16 - Bruce Cutknife - Samson Cree Nation - Residential School History

March 16 - Various presenters - SAS 2016 Summer Review

April 20 - Haeden Stewart of the University of Chicago - The 2016 Mill Creek excavations: early 20th century archaeology in Edmonton.

The Strathcona Archaeological Society is the most northern chapter of the Archaeological Society of Alberta. We are an Edmonton group that promotes Albertan and Canadian archaeology.

Please visit our website for updates, lecture details, workshop announcements and more.

www.arkyedmonton.ca

Facebook - Strathcona Archaeological Society Page

What is Archaeology?

Archaeology is the study of ancient history through material remains. Archaeologists use excavation followed by analysis to understand past human societies and how they changed over time. Through archaeology it is possible to reconstruct aspects of human society, such as human diet, housing, and lifestyle.

For over 50 years the Archaeological Society of Alberta has been an advocate for the study and preservation of the rich archaeological heritage of Alberta. The Archaeological Society of Alberta provides opportunities for the public to learn more about Alberta's heritage by attending regular archaeological lectures, visiting archaeological sites, participating in archaeological research, and taking part in traditional skills workshops.

All members of the Archaeological Society of Alberta support the terms of the Alberta Historical Resources Act, which provides protection to all archaeological and paleontological sites. For more information on this Act, please visit www.culture.alberta.ca

Benefits of an Archaeological Society of Alberta Membership

- ◆ Subscription to the ASA E-Newsletter
- ◆ Subscription to the Alberta Archaeological Review
- ◆ Invitation to regular meetings & lectures throughout the fall and winter
- ◆ Opportunities to participate in field trips, workshops, and projects
- ◆ Attend the Annual Conference held each spring, which features speakers on topics related to Alberta Archaeology

Visit www.arkyalberta.ca for more information on the Archaeological Society of Alberta.

To join the Strathcona Archaeological Society, the Edmonton chapter of the ASA, please visit www.arkyedmonton.ca

