

The Irish Fieldschool of Prehistoric Archaeology

Get academic credit on a summer course in Ireland

Who we are and what we do.

We are a National University of Ireland, Galway fieldschool and the only archaeological fieldschool singularly focused on Ireland's prehistory. We are currently concentrating on megalithic tombs, and on trying to understand how and why they were built.

Excavation

In 2017 we will be digging a 4,500 year old megalithic wedge tomb. Students will get experience of working with human remains.

Survey and tour

On our archaeological survey course you will learn traditional and digital survey techniques and get to visit many different megaliths.

Experiment

On our experimental archaeology course you will get experience of working with ancient materials. In 2017 we will be concentrating on bronze casting.

What our previous students say?

'I met new life-long friends and made great connections in academic circles. The excavation really strengthened my desire to pursue archaeology as a career. I highly recommend the course to anyone with even a slight interest in archaeology'

For more informations please visit our website www.prehistoricfieldschool.ie

