STAND, the award winning documentary, takes viewers on a journey through the waters of B.C.'s west coast. Through the stories of an Indigenous high school class building their own stand-up paddleboards as a form of protest, the efforts of expedition stand-up paddler Norm Hann, and the powerful surfing of Raph Bruhwiler, the diversity of people, landscape and wildlife that would be affected by an oil spill will be articulated. STAND will take you to the core of the issue and unfurl the soul of B.C.'s west coast one paddle stroke at a time.

This is part of our Bannock and & Movie series
